Law Enforcement Specific Treatment Programs of American Addiction Centers

American Addiction Centers recognizes our responsibility to the individuals who run towards danger instead of away from it. That's why we're continually developing our programs to provide effective substance abuse, behavioral health, and co-occurring disorder treatment specifically designed for law enforcement professionals.

One call does it all.

“The team at American Addiction Centers is hard at work to ensure the law enforcement community has access to the finest national treatment program available.”

– James Morrison, CADIC, BRI-II, Retired Chicago Police EAP

Mr. Morrison is currently a law enforcement treatment consultant with American Addiction Centers.

This program continues to depend heavily on the input of law enforcement officers, family members, and therapists to provide feedback and support as we move forward. We reach out to physicians, therapists, and counselors who share our passion to provide treatment to this severely underserved population.

Our team is available any time, day or night, and can help manage and treat any problems affecting you or your family member's career and/or personal life.

Our counselors are experienced in the treatment of the law enforcement community. They truly understand what it means

“To Protect and Serve.”
